Stardance (novella) Spider Robinson, Jeanne Robinson

Shara, a gifted choreographer and dancer, can't find work. Together with Charlie, a camera man who wants to help Shara achieve her dream, they discover a new way for her to dance: in zero gravity . . . from space! When an alien force invades, it is up to Shara to find a way to communicate and save Earth.

"The Robinsons' message -- that love and communication are what being human is really about -- is delivered with plenty of action, high-tech and character development."

- Publishers Weekly

on STARDANCE the Novel, based on the award-winning Novella:

"STARDANCE is a major work not only as entertainment but as a literary masterpiece."

- Chicago Sun Times

"Larger-than-life characters, a love of dance and music, and a grand vision, with a sense of ecstasy that infuses much of the novel . . ."

- Locus Magazine

on Spider Robinson:

"If one were given the task of creating Spider Robinson from scratch, the best way to do it would be to snatch James Joyce from history, force-feed him Marx Brothers films and good jazz for the better part of a decade, then turn him loose on a world badly in need of a look at itself."

- The Vancouver Sun

"Spider Robinson is the hottest writer to hit science fiction since Harlan Ellison, and he can match the master's frenetic energy and emotional intensity, arm-break for gut-wrench."

- The Los Angeles Times

"Nobody's perfect, but Spider comes pretty damned close."

- Ben Bova

"A Master!"

- Locus

"Spider Robinson is the Tom Robbins of the 21st century."

- John Varley

"Spider Robinson is a master storyteller..."

- Allen Steele

[Spider Robinson] "embodies the best of Sturgeon, Heinlein, and Asimov."

- David Gerrold

"Robinson's creative imagination is admirable."

- Publishers Weekly

about the author:
